ATE Central, in conjunction with AACC, is happy to announce the release of the free 2012 ATE PI Conference mobile app!

The 2012 ATE PI Conference app is designed for iPhone, iPad, and Android mobile devices, and a browser-based version is available as well that can be accessed via other devices, including desktop and laptop computers.

The purpose of this free mobile app is to help meeting attendees easily:

- access conference information
- keep track of the sessions and showcases they wish to attend
- create, view, and modify a personal agenda for the meeting
- connect with ATE colleagues

Ready to try it out? Follow the steps below!

Step One:
Install and launch the 2012 ATE PI Conference App

In mid-October, you were likely sent an email introducing the app. This email provides a link for you to register and download the app. Follow that link and you'll be prompted to choose your password.

Or, If you use iPhone, iPad, or Android, you can search your app store for "2012 ATE Conference" and download the app. These links will directly download for the different platforms:

iPad: http://atecentral.net/PIApp-iPad
iPhone: http://atecentral.net/PIApp-iPhone
Android: http://atecentral.net/PIApp-Android

Those who don't have the supported devices or wish to prepare for the conference from a desktop or laptop computer can visit http://atecentral.net/PIApp-Web. Your username will be the email address that you used to register for the conference. We recommend you do these quick tasks before the conference when you know you have reliable wifi access and a few spare and quiet moments.

Step Two:
Use the App to view conference information, create a personalized schedule, and connect with colleagues

Once the free app is installed, you will see the main navigation menu with the following buttons.

Your Account: Tap this icon to view and edit your profile, change your password, and manage your social networks.

Agenda: View the schedule of events at the conference, including workshops, plenaries, and meals. Tap the event to read more about it and find out where it is. To add an event to your personal schedule, tap the arrow to expand and then tap Add.

Showcases: View showcase sessions by name, by day, or by discipline (by tapping Sort) and read all about them, including descriptions and booth locations. Choose specific showcases to visit by tapping the arrow and then tapping Follow.

Attendees: See all other conference attendees and their affiliations. Following another attendee allows you to see where they are presenting, or send them a Message through the app.

Maps: See a map of both levels of the conference center and the individual booths in the Exhibit Hall. Tap a location to see what's happening there.

My Event: This is the hub of your information in the app, including contacts you've made with other attendees, your personal schedule of conference events, and the showcases you've highlighted.

Messages: Here you can send and receive messages from other attendees or broadcast messages from the conference organizers.

Chatter: Follow the Twitter and/or Facebook feeds for the conference, as well as for attendees who you have Followed. You can also see where other attendees are checking in.

Please feel free to stop by and visit ATE Central at Booth #2 during any Showcase Session, or email us at info@atecentral.net to give us your feedback.

We look forward to your input!
The ATE Central and AACC teams